CoPPA launches Sub Group in London

The Court of Protection Practitioners Association (CoPPA) was founded in Manchester in September 2012. A sub group in London was launched on Thursday 19 November where the guest speaker was Senior Judge of the Court of Protection, Denzil Lush. The aims of CoPPA are:-

- to create a forum for discussion of matters of common interest
- to ascertain and represent views of members in relation to their professional interests
- to protect and promote the efficiency of Courts in England and Wales in dealing with matters relating to the Court of Protection
- to further the understanding and development of the Court of Protection and Mental Capacity and Mental Health Law
- to develop the facility in England and Wales for the conduct of cases in the Court of Protection
- the advancement of education of the public and to further and improve the knowledge of all persons involved and interested in the law and practice of relating to Court of Protection and Mental Health and Mental Capacity issues
